

HITCH

Jasper Morrison

The smooth concrete surface of the Hitch bench is true to Jasper Morrison's signature style. A seemingly simplistic form sits with considered detailing of a scooped top surface and linear grooves to channel rain water. Morrison's design sits quietly in a busy urban environment on its own or in clusters and the bench's soft aesthetics gently enhances its surroundings. Its lightly mysterious character is intended to suggest something left behind from long ago.

Hitch

Jasper Morrison

Design 2012

Description Bench

Dimensions L1800mm x D380mm x H420mm

Notes Suitable for permanent outdoor use, weathering will occur naturally over time

Materials Concrete

Colours Light grey

Jasper Morrison

Nationality British

Born 1959

Biography

Jasper Morrison set up his London based Office for Design in 1986 after an education in furniture design at Kingston Polytechnic and the Royal

College of Art. Morrison now divides his time between studios in Paris and London. Since the late 1980s Morrison has produced refined objects for everyday life and his original, intellectual approach to design has earned him many accolades. Industrial production applied to archetypal objects and a preoccupation with rational design define Morrison's oeuvre and this has won him commissions for trams, tableware, electrical goods, furniture and crockery. Morrison has always been interested in the influence objects have on everyday atmosphere and cites the early Modernists as what first inspired him to design.